A world map with a dark blue background. Numerous thin, colored lines (red, orange, yellow, green, blue, purple) radiate from a central point on the left side of the map, extending across the globe. These lines represent global connections or data flow. Some lines are thicker and more prominent, while others are thinner. The lines connect various points on the map, creating a complex network of global links. The map shows the outlines of continents in a light gray color.
