A night scene of a city street covered in debris and trash, with people walking through it. A large building is illuminated on the left, and a market stall is visible on the right. The image shows a street scene at night, heavily littered with debris, including cardboard boxes, plastic waste, and other trash. Several people are walking through the debris. On the left, a large, brightly lit building with a classical facade is visible. On the right, there is a market stall with clothing hanging on display. The overall atmosphere is one of urban decay and neglect.
